CITY OFFICIALS also asked the supervisors for support to construct a parking structure on the civic center. Increased activity at the site, along with proposed plans for future development, will create a "major parking problem," Mayor Albert Isen said. Specific plans for a parking structure should be submitted to the county, Chace remarked, before any county funds can be committed. Both he and Hahn pledged cooperation for such a project.

Chace, one of many dignitaries to attend ground breaking ceremonies March 10 for the Del Amo Financial Center, predicted Hawthorne Boulevard would "be the Wilshire Boulevard of the Southwest area."

Program chairman for the event was Charles Cederlof, manager of the Torrance office of Glendale Savings and Loan Association.

HAHN, whose district includes part of Torrance and the Watts area, took issue with Chace on the financial problems. Recalling last August's riots and last Tuesday's brief flare-up, Hahn told the group, "We are paying the price for some of the problems of the home being destroyed and for education."

Improvement Of Amber Sky Is Rejected

A proposed assessment improvement of Amber Sky Drive in the Rolling Hills area has been abandoned by the county because of protest petitions filed with the Board of Supervisors.
